Greatest Blizzard Since '88 Hits New York

Suffering And Death Follow In Wake Of Storm

NEW YORK, March 7.—A blizzard of intensity that recalled the storm of 1888 swept New York and adjacent States today.

Snow fell early today totaled five inches or more and was so dense as to obscure visibility for more than a few feet. Street car rails became so icy that this kind of traffic was demoralized. Vehicle travel through the city's streets was extremely difficult.

One boy is dead, and many persons suffered severe injury as a result of the slippery streets which are covered with a heavy coating of sleet and snow.

Snow fell all day yesterday, turning to sleet in the afternoon. The storm continued with increased fury today.

Harbor traffic was almost tied up, only ferries and tugs groping and battling their way through the blizzard. The cold wave, following spring-like weather, again caused a coal shortage. City health authorities issued influenza warnings.

Only four thousand snow shovellers answered the city's call for men to keep streets and sidewalks clear and this number proved totally inadequate, the snow piling up in huge drifts.

Elevated roads were tied up for an hour in many places early today, especially where the lines ran through cuts on the way to Long Island points. Rain and sleet alternately formed impassable coatings on third rails and tracks.

The Weather Bureau predicts that it will continue for at least another twelve hours.

Turkey Sends Proposal To The Allies Today

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 7.—Turkey today sent to the allies proposals for new negotiations regarding Mosul and the financial and economic clauses of the Lausanne treaty. The National Assembly rejected the treaty yesterday with only a few dissenting votes. At the same time the assembly gave the Government a vote of confidence.

Turkish independence must be upheld and the allies must make further concessions regarding occupied regions to be evacuated upon conclusion of peace, the assembly declared in voting down the Lausanne pact and choosing possible war rather than accept it.

The United States Commissioner sent a vigorous note to the Ankara government protesting against the interrupting of duty on American flour.

Wind Blows Hard In Alabama Town During the Night

OPELIKA, Ala., March 7.—Roofs were blown off houses and telephone wires put out of commission by a wind storm which swept through here late yesterday.

$75,000 Fire Hits A Georgia Village

MACON, Ga., March 7.—Loss in the fire which destroyed the planing mill of the Massee Pelton Lumber Company here last night was estimated at $75,000 today.

The fire is believed to have started from sparks from a railroad engine on a siding near the mill. A stiff wind made firefighting difficult.

Navy Planes Plan World Flight In Future

NEW YORK, March 7.—A conquest of the air that includes flights around the world and to the North and South Poles is planned by the United States Navy.

The flights will be attempted with the navy dirigible ZR-1, a monster airship now under construction at Philadelphia and Lakehurst, N. J., Rear Admiral Wm. A. Moffet, chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics declared in a speech through a wireless broadcasting station here last night.

The dirigible, the first of its kind to be built by the navy will be completed about July 1, and will also be sent on long trips throughout the United States Moffet said, adding that a sister "Queen of the Air," the ZR-3, is being built for the American Navy in Germany.

The two ships, it was declared, comprise the most improved factors known to air sea.

Declaring that the navy leads the world in air equipment and stressing importance of such equipment in warfare, Moffet declared Bermuda and the Bahamas occupy the same relations to the United States as Heligoland did to Germany and that enemy airplanes using the islands as a base could bomb practically the entire Atlantic seaboard. It also called attention to the fact that Jamaica is within easy bombing distance of the Panama Canal.

Hunt Organized In Oklahoma To Find H. Garrett

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7.—Federal and county authorities here started an organized search of Oklahoma county today in an effort to recapture Henry Garrett, alleged leader of strike violence at Shawnee, who jumped from a train near here last night as he was being taken to Pottawatomie county to face charges.

Garrett was in custody of Sheriff G. C. Butler, Pottawatomie county when he made his daring escape. The sheriff went on to Shawnee where he reported the escape to local authorities, it was learned.

A signed confession admitting depredations in connection with the strike was obtained from Garrett shortly before he was sent to Shawnee, Alva McDonald, United States Marshal said.

Snow Is Heavy In The States of New England

BOSTON, Mass., March 7.—One of the worst snow storms in years lashed New England last night and today bringing a fall of more than six inches in 12 hours.

The storm swept out of the North-east on the wings of a fifty mile an hour gale that drifted the snow on railroad tracks and highways to a depth of several feet.

Doctor Abducted In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Mar. 7.—Dr. B. Cheston Goldberg, prominent physician, who was kidnapped by four unmasked men from his home here last night, staggered into the police station today, his clothing torn and his body badly bruised.

Goldberg told police his abductors carried him to a point eight miles east of the city where they robbed him of $20 and threw him from the car. The bandits overlooked a gold watch he was carrying, Goldberg said.

The doctor declared he believed his abductors were dope fiends who were after the small amount of narcotics he carried.

MANAGER BOX OF NATIONAL AND PALACE THEATRES SUFFERS FROM SHOCK WHICH HE SUSTAINED FROM VERY LIVE WIRE

P. W. Box, Manager of the National and Palace Theatres, here was so severely shocked Tuesday afternoon when he came in contact with a live wire, resulting in him receiving the full 220 volts in his body before he fell loose from the contact.

He had gone to the rear of his establishment in the National theatre building and attempted to unscrew a bulb from its socket. In taking hold of the socket, his hand came in touch with the live wire. He felt himself becoming dazed and fell backward, his hand being released in falling to the floor. Electricians explained that he received double the 110 voltage due to the connection his body established with the concrete floor. It was about ten minutes before he recovered consciousness. His hand was painfully burned in the ordeal.

NEW YORK GRAND JURY INDICTS FOURTEEN OF CAST

NEW YORK, March 7.—Grand jury indictments today summoned fourteen members of cast of "Gods of Vengeance" the owner of the play and the manager of the Apollo Theatre before Assistant District Attorney J. O'Neal. They are charged with taking part in a production that was "immoral and obscene."

Mary Garden, sailing for a European trip a fortnight ago, declared she thought "Gods of Vengeance" the most moral play on Broadway.

The scenes are laid in a brothel, where a father struggles to save his innocent daughter from corruption.

Investigation of N. Y. Bootlegging Is To Be Made

NEW YORK, March 7.—A sweeping grand jury investigation into extensive bootlegging operations has been decided upon by local and Federal authorities.

Through this inquiry, local officials hope to break up the bootlegging ring which has been supplying large quantities of liquor allegedly to Congressmen, Government officials and many residents of the Nation's Capital prominent society. The grand jury probably will be convened for the investigation either today or tomorrow.

Banker Will Get Well Following Suicide Effort

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 7.—Federal bank examiners today checked up on an alleged shortage of $600,000 in the liberty bond department of the Springfield National Bank after A. Penfield, cashier, attempted suicide by slitting his wrists with a penknife.

Penfield was in charge of the liberty bond department. Physicians says he will recover.

Police Combing Oklahoma City For Doctor Abducted

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7.—The police were combing this city today in search of Dr. B. Cheston Goldberg, prominent physician, who was abducted by four unidentified men as he entered his home here late last night.

A hat in which was stamped the name "Harper" and the vague description offered by Mrs. Goldberg, who was attracted by calls of her husband as he unsuccessfully tried to fight off his abductors, they said.

According to Mrs. Goldberg she and her husband and small son and the doctor had just returned from a call. The wife and child left the automobile at the door while Goldberg drove his car around to the garage.

Mrs. Goldberg explained to police that just as she and her son were entering the house screams of her husband for help were heard. She rushed to garage to offer assistance she said, but the kidnappers shoved her aside with the order to "shut up or we'll give worse."

The men carried Goldberg to a waiting automobile and disappeared, she stated.

LEADERSHIP INSPIRING IN MEXIA

Solomon never spoke words fraught with greater wisdom than contained in the statement that "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Mexia has been proud of the reputation that she has been sustaining for many months as "The City That Vision Is Building."

Wichita Falls is known as "The City That Faith Built." Mexia is like Wichita Falls in some respects. It is favorably located in the heart of a great oil producing area and has an ambition to prosper and to increase just like Wichita Falls.

In these slogans there is a difference, however.

The Wichita Falls slogan conveys the impression that Faith has been active in the past but that it has completed its influence and that a finished product stands as a result of its mighty force in the past.

Mexia's slogan, on the other hand, conveys the idea that the city is not yet, done growing and that in its forward strides faith and vision are playing prominent roles.

Whether or not this slogan is true now is again being tested, in the matter of the movement to build cotton mills here. There is yet work to be done.

There is not much doubt but that Mexia citizens will measure up to the standards of up looking men and women which have characterized this people as an active community, and this doubt should be dispelled before tomorrow night.

Leadership is an important matter in any and all affairs in community life. Mexia is fortunate in having men of vision to whom every man, woman and child may look in the present instance.

J. K. Hughes, head of the cotton mill movement, is one of those rare citizens seldom found in any community but effective and helpful, appreciated and applauded, by thousands wherever their mighty influence finds sway.

Mexia may rally to him again as never before.

He has been an outstanding figure in the triumphant march of this section in the past two years and his interest, his loyalty, his enthusiasm, his confidence, and his vision are now the most convincing arguments in favor of the Mexia Cotton Mills that could possibly be advanced.

There remains but a few crucial hours before Mexia will have her answer ready for Mr. Hughes. Mr. Hughes is confident.

It now remains for the hundreds who have not been seen in regard to their part in the future industrial development of this section to take a hold at once and voluntarily, without hesitation, but with assurance, let him and the Chamber of Commerce know just how much or how little they can take in putting the cotton mill for Mexia over in grand style right away.

Less than 200 citizens so far have pledged their financial support to the new Mexia, to be built with the aid of the cotton mills. There should be several times that many interested. It may be that large sums cannot be invested but in view of the manner of payments, few property owners are here who cannot take a small sum at least and help that much.

Don't pass the buck to George.

You are as much interested in the progress and as responsible for its civic improvement and position of leadership in this section of Texas as those who have been bearing a big part of the battle and paying the bills.

In the interest of a bigger and better Mexia, rally to the leadership of J. K. Hughes and the others who are working day and night now to make possible this first big industrial dream, sponsored by vision, held for Mexia today and for a greater tomorrow.

J. K. Hughes Calls Another Important Session Thursday

Approximately fifty business men gathered Tuesday night at the Hurst-Holston Hotel in an open meeting to discuss ways and means of completing the cotton mill campaign. The meeting was originally intended as a street meeting but on account of the necessity of putting the cotton mill campaign over, it was changed to a cotton mill meeting and due notice was given in the press.

The meeting was presided over by J. K. Hughes who stated that the object of the meeting was to lay plans for the successful completion of the Cotton Mill campaign. He spoke in his usual confident way and the result of the meeting was the raising of the total subscription of $214,400 reported in Tuesday's paper to approximately $250,000 at the close of the meeting. Due to the inability of the office to induce the team captains to report the names of the subscribers an accurate check is impossible and the figures given are approximate. Subscriptions taken at the meeting are as follows:

V. B. Gardner raised his subscription of $2,000 to $5,000.

Subscription from D. Leon Harp of $2,500 was reported by J. K. Hughes.

Subscription of J. Desenberg of $5,000, which had been given previously, but not reported, was raised to $7,500 by Mr. Desenberg.

J. Nussbaum gave his subscription for $7,500.

Geo. Petty's committee reported that they had raised $2,300 but the names were not listed.

Phil Karner's committee reported that they had raised $2,750 since the last report but the names were not listed.

C. F. Reeves was reported as having subscribed $150.00.

Buckner & Wright reported as having subscribed $1,000.

Emile Nussbaum subscribed $1,000.

Geo. W. Perkins turned in his subscription for $500.00.

A list of Mexia business men and firms who had not yet subscribed were submitted and different committees were detailed to see these prospects, and the opinion expressed that the Mexia business interests should whole heartedly support the proposition by subscriptions liberally and without delay as something definite must be had on the proposition as evidenced by the following telegram which is quoted in full:

Atlanta, Ga., March 6, 1923.

Ben F. Stollenwerk, secretary.

Chamber of Commerce, Mexia, Texas.

This will act as authority for extension of time on mill proposition through Saturday this week. Pleased to hear of your progress. We are with you so keep up the good work. Wire me your progress Wednesday.

Cannon Robert Interest.

Geo. W. Perkins who had recently heard an address in the Texas legislature by Dr. Jno. J. Taggart, National Commissioner of Education, with reference to the cotton mill in connection with Educational affairs said that previous to the advent of the cotton mill industry into the commercial life of North Carolina that that state had been way down the line in educational rank but that due to the prosperity brought with the cotton mill that North Carolina had advanced in educational standing until she was far ahead of Texas today and that from actual observation completely refuted the statement to the effect that the cotton mill industry tended to lower the standard of citizenship where it was located. Mr. Perkins closed his talk with his subscription to stock of the mill and his remarks were highly appreciated by those present.

H. M. Gilbough, W. M. Moody and John F. Reese of Tehuacana spoke briefly and expressed the opinion that Mexia was on the right track and that the cotton mill should be all means be built in Mexia.

J. Desenberg, J. Nussbaum, Dr. Oates and one or two others spoke briefly giving endorsement to the proposition as heretofore outlined.

Secretary Stollenwerk of the Chamber of Commerce asked to be permitted to make a statement in which he gave what he termed the "inside history" of the present proposition that the Chamber of Commerce is backing. He referred to the cotton mill publicity campaign by the Chamber of Commerce, saying that there was in the community a strong sentiment in favor of the cotton mill, but due to the fact that the Chamber of Commerce had never until the present instance, developed a proposition, that they could unequivocally endorse, and ask the citizens to subscribe to stock.

He related how when Mr. Hughes had been appointed chairman of the Industrial Committee that he had called the Secretary to his office, and suggested that there had been enough talk and enough publicity, and that it was time for the Chamber of Commerce to put out something tangible. He related how he informed Mr. Hughes that up to that time nothing tangible had offered itself except various schemes of promoters and that in conference with mill operators of several successful mills in Texas he had been warned against the building of a mill which

MUCH DAMAGE BY GEORGIA STORM TUESDAY NIGHT

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7.—A high wind storm which swept Georgia last night caused property damage amounting to thousands of dollars, it was estimated today.

Roofs were blown off houses in several small towns and telephone communications was disrupted. Passenger trains on the Central of Georgia, running out of Montgomery, Ala., was delayed by debris blown across the tracks.

George Petty, President of the Mexia Chamber of Commerce, now actively interested in putting over the cotton mills for Mexia and busy with the team of which he is a member in raising finances for the project, states that he is ready to help on any terms that may desire his co-operation. He is ready at all hours, day or night, with his conveyance to go with any man or any set of men anywhere and will take great pleasure in responding to such calls he says. He like scores of others here are anxious to see this thing through successfully.

Mrs. Guy Smith, little daughter Dorothy and baby child are all "flu" sufferers at present.

Ingenuity

It was one of those melodramas given by home talent and in the guard-house scene a real, honest-to-goodness buck private was supposed to be drilled by a bullet while sawing through the bars in an endeavor to gain his liberty. The gun unfortunately missed fire, but the buck, true to form, dropped as if dead.

Something had to be done and that instantly, but the sergeant of the guard was equal to emergency. "Thunder and lightning!" he bellowed. "He's swallowed the hack-saw."—Ex.

Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

The Quick Style

The quickest-cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quick Quaker Oats, as well as the regular Quaker.

The Quick cooks in a hurry. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

Thin flakes, partly cooked

In flavor and quality the two styles are identical. Both are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats.

We get but ten pounds of Quaker Oats from a bushel. And that super-flavor has made this brand the leading oat dish the world over.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now Quaker Oats offers you two great advantages. It offers you flavor which no other oats can match. And it offers, if you wish, the only oats that cook in from 3 to 5 minutes.

For one or both of these reasons you want Quaker Oats. Be sure that you get it, and get the style you want.

Regular Quaker Oats

Come in package at left—the style you have always known.

Quick Quaker Oats

Come in package at right, with the "Quick" label.

Your grocer has both. Be sure to get the style you want.

HOME HINTS

Pressing at Home.
When pressing clothes at home, wet the pressing cloth in hot water instead of cold, and you will not cool your irons.
A Stitch in Time.
If winter underwear, which new, were stitched around each bottomhole twice on the sewing machine, the buttonholes would not stretch until the garment is worn out.
A Fine Filler
Finely chopped cork mixed with liquid glue is excellent as a filler for holes in linoleum. When it has set hard, rub down with emery paper and paint to match the linoleum.
No Lumps
Remove the powdered sugar from the bag as soon as it arrives and place it in a tightly covered glass jar, such as a mason jar. You will find no lumps when you wish to use it.

BLIGHT HITS BLOSSOMS
Paris Stage Door Johnnies Are Forced To Dig Deeply
PARIS, March 7.—"Saying it with flowers" costs real hard money in Paris now, owing to a strike of the more expensive varieties of blossoms in their nursery gardens on the Riviera.
Horticultural experts state that a mysterious blight, hitherto unknown has caused hundreds of thousands of rose, chrysanthemum, orchid and carnation plants to refuse to blossom.
As a result a rose is selling in Paris for as much as one dollar, present exchange, while an anemone was sold recently for five dollars.
Love-sick gentlemen, stage-door Johnnies and other patrons of florists as a consequence are having a hard time.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

As Spring days approach, the demand for Dodge Brothers Touring Car mounts swiftly.
Dodge Brothers one problem, at present, is not how many Touring Cars they can sell, but how many they can build.
Never was public approval of Dodge Brothers product more obvious, and never was it more richly deserved.
Improvements, rarely spoken of but constantly being made, have brought the car to a state of perfection which can only be described as remarkable, even for Dodge Brothers.

Every part which takes a major strain is built of chrome vanadium steel. Many more pieces of alloy steel are used in vital parts than normal wear requires.

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

MASTERPIECE OF ALL LITERATURE

(Waco Times-Herald)

Lately there has been spread before us what ten books this, that or the other individual would take along with him or her in the event of being banished to some island, although, we fancy, those Galvestonians would resent the idea of their being a place of banishment. Here, as elsewhere, of course, tastes differ; one person wants philosophy and another wants poetry and yet another prefers only such literature as lifts the veil and lets one look into the ultimate heavens. In books, as in everything else, what's one man's delight is another's fright—books and bonnets are not dissimilar in this respect. If one reads much, one's taste undergoes change, save as to certain masterpieces—these can never pall. At a certain stage in one's career, one will like Dickens—will fairly dote on him; later, no Dickens for him, save an occasional morsel. And so, bound for that imaginable island, the ten books one would select today might be poor companions tomorrow. However, there are sketches in literature which never lose their beauty; this, for example, from Sterne's Tristram Shandy:

The accusing spirit, which flew up to heaven's chancery with the oath, blushed as he gave it in;
and the recording angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear upon the word and blotted it out forever.

And there is a never-fading beauty in these lines from Gray's Elegy:

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour.

The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
Always in Shakespeare's writings, of course, there is superb beauty:

Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,
To silence envious tongues; be just and fear not;
Let all the ends thou aimest at be thy country's,
Thy God's and truth's.

Hugh Blair, a Scottish divine, has said that "the great standard of literature, as to purity and excellence of style, is the Bible." As far as we have observed, the most of those taking passage for the island, with no return ticket, have named the Bible among the ten books designated, but this might be accounted for not so much on account of literature as in the belief, whether hidden or expressed, that this Book is the guide to our ultimate destination. Nevertheless, as literature the Bible is indeed a wellspring of joy. There is majesty in the writings of Isaiah, while many of the Psalms are as honey gathered in the region about Uvalde. The imagery of the Book of Revelation is superior to the dreams of De Quincey or the flights of Milton. But, in our humble opinion, the greatest single piece of literature, unmatched and unmatchable, is the Parable of the Prodigal Son, taken from the fifteenth chapter of the Gospel according to Luke:

11 And he said, A certain man had two sons:
12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger.

18 I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him,
Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, 19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment; and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad:
for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost,
and is found.

No element is lacking; it is poetry; it is imagery; it is inspiration; it is abiding peace to the soul. No writer, either of old or of modern times, has ever matched that production; the Parable of the Prodigal Son is the masterpiece of all literature.

Frank Mayo has won a niche in the cinematic Hall of Fame by being a man's man. The success of his pictures does not depend upon sartorial elegance or lavish settings. This is brought out more strongly than ever in his latest Universal offering, "Out of the Silent North," which now showing at the Palace Theatre. It is a tale of the Canadian Northlands with Namar's rugged beauty as a background.
Those who have seen the picture declare it one of the best in the Universal star's career.

"WHILE OTHERS SLEEP"

OWEN FRIEND WATKINS
NIGHTLY SERENADE

My neighbor has a charming daughter
Who's taking voice and harmony
And every night I hear her laughter
Some old plantation melody.
He also keeps around his flat
An old coon hound and brindle cat

When daughter's last distressing number
Has filled the air with squealing sound
And I have stretched myself for slumber
Then comes the yelp of that old hound.
And thus throughout the stilly night
He barks and howls with all his might.

I toss and roll and kick the cover
And wish that dog would choke or die
But twelve o'clock he seeks his hover
And whines the moon a sad good-bye.
And then while shadows o'er me creep
I weigh my eyelids down to sleep.

But not for long does slumber linger
To give me rest and paint my dreams
For three o'clock, with piercing anger
That brindle cat lets out his screams.
Sometimes his squalls are short, subdued,
That's always signs of Tom-Cat feud.

His meows and growls and sudden hisses
Would wake the dead for judgment morn
While there I fill the air with curses
And wonder why that cat was born.
That wailing cry, that fiendish yell
Was never heard this side of H— (Groesbeck).

SPORTS

THE MELTING POT

Up in North Texas baseball fans have a hunch that the Texas association will not function this season.
Some of the wise guys claim that the new league will receive the knockout punch following the meeting of the league in Waco next Sunday. Then will come a new gathering of those interested in the T-O league in Dallas and permanent formation of that organization will be perfected.

It evidently does not occur to the T-O boosters that the Texas Association is already well founded. Sherman and Corsicana have both obtained releases from the T-O and the Mexia franchise is already in the new organization. Both Sherman and Corsicana have already expressed a preference to be in Texas Association and will possibly still express such a preference at the next meeting of the new league.

It is easy to see on the face of things that towns in the Texas league are more than anxious to see the T-O league get back on its feet and just as eager to see the Texas association fail. The main reason is that the Texas league realizes that it cannot dominate the Texas association and use it as a burial place for its falling stars.

On all sides we hear reports that the Texas-Oklahoma league is about to die and in the same paper we read reports that the league will have a meeting for reorganization purposes at a near future date. Wonder which is correct?

Texas Association
Will Hold Meeting
Corsicana SundayTO DECIDE IF CORSICANA AND SHERMAN MAY JOIN ON
ONE-YEAR BASIS

CORSICANA, March 7.—President
Dude Ransom of the Corsicana baseball association stated Monday afternoon that he had a telephone message from President Davidson of the Texas Association stating that he did not know whether the Texas Association would accept Corsicana and Sherman on the one year release from the Texas Oklahoma which was granted at a meeting of the Texas-Oklahoma league in Dallas Sunday.

At the meeting the T-O League
Sunday it was decided to allow Corsicana and Sherman to join the Texas Association for a period of one year since they had made tentative arrangements to join because it was the consensus of opinion that the T-O League was to disband.

President Ransom stated that Mr.
Davidson informed him that a meeting of the Texas Association would be held in Corsicana next Sunday at which time the proposition of allowing Sherman and Corsicana to join the Texas Association will be acted on.

In the event that the Texas, Association refuses to accept Corsicana and Sherman on the basis that they were released, it is probable that the Texas-Oklahoma League will reorganize and operate during the approaching season.

SPLENDID NEW DRAMA
MIRRORS FAR NORTH

The great, silent places of the North have been cast for a leading part in "Out of the Silent North," Frank Mayo's latest Universal production, which is now showing at the Palace to day. The picture has a background of scenic beauty rarely shown upon the screen. Towering mountains rare their hoary heads above the snow filled valleys in which the action of the photoplay takes place. The changing seasons put a different aspect upon the setting of the picture. Amid these splendors of nature a simple tale is unfolded, a story of the true nobility with which the Creator had endowed an ignorant frontiersman.

Frank Mayo has the role of Pierre Baptiste, a French-Canadian living in a distant outpost of civilization. He loved Marcette, whose father kept the only store. A stranger comes, a man, whose polish and refinement turned the girl's head. For her happiness Pierre is ready to sacrifice himself. He accompanies the man upon a dangerous expedition, saves his life and brings him, injured, back for Marcette to nurse. In this the girl realizes Pierre's true worth.

The story has been convincingly filmed under the direction of William Worthington.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work,
But This Texas Lady Says She
Had to Go to Bed—
Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place.
"I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work."

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches."

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.

Humphreys Gun Club Plans Series of "Shoots"

Dr C P McKenzie High Scorer At Initial Event

At the first contest of the Humphreys Gun Club, held on the range, just west of the Humphreys Club building, last Saturday, Dr. C. P. McKenzie was declared first prize winner, with a score of 48.

A. P. Dorris of the Humphreys Club was a close second with a score of 42.

Hal Easton and George Prendergast were also close contenders for third place, their scores being 35 and 34 respectively, while C. C. Brown was 5 at the shooting with 32 to his credit.

The score was out of a possible 50. There were 23 present and participating in the shoot, which was intensely interesting to the "good fellows" who entered with a zest into the sport which now seems destined to soon take rank in this section as a real "Major" sport.

Much interest is now being attached to the series of events planned by the club for the next four weeks, which will in all comprise the next competitive "shoot in four acts."

George Prendergast, Secretary of the Club and because of whose efforts the existence of the club is largely due, states that there will be fifty birds each Saturday.

At the shoot on Saturday, it was stated that A. P. Dorris remonstrated against the target. It was his first contest, it is alleged that the targets should be much larger and that the range should be shortened considerably. Others who had trouble then may take this important matter up in executive councils at an early date, unless something is done, it is further stated.

Membership cards are now being issued in the Gun Club and Mr. Prendergast states that the present membership will be glad to receive applications from any others who enjoy this sport. Affiliation with the organization is open to the public and already the club is growing in numbers rapidly.

The public is also cordially invited to witness the events each Saturday, just to the left of the Groesbeck road, near the Hughes teaming camp, a short distance outside the city limits.

GIRL HUNGRY WITH 111 DEGREES FEVER

ESCANABIA, Mich., March 7.—Miss Evelyn Woods, 30, who for the past 17 days has startled the medical profession with a temperature reading 114 degrees or better, passed a very good night, according to the report issued today by Dr. Harry Defnet, physician in charge. The girl's appetite also remained good.

According to the physician, fear is expressed that the girl will die should the temperature go down. The unprecedented fever is believed to have been caused from a tumor which is causing pressure on the thermal centers of the brain, the report says.

EL DORADO—A new stone building for the local telephone exchange is being arranged for. Damage done wires by a recent heavy sleet storm is now completely repaired.

SURELY LANDIS HAS HIS TROUBLES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 7.—When Commissioner Landis took charge of major league baseball, he must have known that planning the club owners was a job of the size and almost as impossible of fulfillment as drying up the ocean with the well-known pan full of holes.

If the commissioner didn't know it then, he surely knows it now.

Rather fortunately for him, however, he has only sixteen men to deal with and in that comparatively small group he can sort the ones for him and the ones against him.

The argument over the creation of the position and the appointment of a man to the post should have shown the commissioner conclusively where he stood.

Since he took up the reins of baseball there has been a steady current of anti-Landis propaganda under the surface.

First it was suggested that he could not deal with the White Sox betrayers drastically and save his hide. The same thing was said about the Kauff case. Then he was predicted as a sure failure when it came to getting the majors and minors together. Next it was the rescue of baseball after it got dark that afternoon during the world's series.

Now it is the Benton case. The commissioner has in his lap a case that the National League wasn't courageous enough to settle itself. If Babe Benton is to sue anyone, he must institute proceedings against Landis. The National League is out of it.

The Benton case is the toughest proposition that has been put up to the commissioner and some of the magnates are reminding him, in actions, if not in actual words, that much are the things for which he was hired.

If Landis reinstates Benton, he will have Charley Herzog and his lawyers on him; if he puts the skids under Benton, he will have Garry Herrmann, the St. Paul club and Benton around his neck.

The National League passed the buck to Landis because it doesn't want to air the Herzog-Benton case in court.

If legal action results from the present tangle, the records may have to be produced, if they haven't been destroyed.

SHOOTING AWAY THE WISE ONES

"Have you heard this?" said Neighbor Quiz.

"Depends," said I, "on what it is!"

"Why, this about young Tim McGee?"

Said I, "That doesn't interest me!"

"Have you heard all this recent stuff about your neighbor, Phil McGuff, how he went down to Farnamdale—?"

"I have no interest in the tale!"

That settled Quiz, and off he went to seek a more attentive gent.

"Have you heard all that's going on about the Widder Lizzie Brown?" said Neighbor Probe, with face all set to tell me what he should forget.

"Perhaps I have, perhaps I've not," said I, "but ditch the tommy-rot!"

"I heard the strangest thing today," my Neighbor Probe went on to say.

"About young Barney Shifflesworth—it surely took me by surprise! And that about young Mackelray, it more than took my breath away when I first heard about the scrape!" continued Probe, with mouth agape.

"Your breath away?" said I.

"Alack! Too bad you ever got it back!"

Away went Probe to seek and find

a listener more keen and kind!

No doubt each man upon the globe has Neighbor Quiz and Neighbor Probe those fellows who will never fail to forget out and spread a tale. The only way to treat such men, I've often said, and say again, is just to shoot them on their way, like I did both of them today!—J. Edward Tufft in Farm Life.

"By Heck" Will Edit Sports For The News

The News' sport page is now being edited "By Heck."

"By Heck" has contributed many columns of type to the Mexia Daily News frequently for the past year.

So much interest has been aroused by virtue of his very readable articles and so much curiosity called to his "By Line" that The News is pleased to reveal his identity to every reader of the sport section of the home newspaper.

"By Heck" is "Charles I. Clover," Official Score Keeper for the Mexia Baseball Club and also Secretary of the Mexia B. P. O. E. 1447.

Many knew this before. Many "guessed him" long ago. Nevertheless there have been many fans here who did not know just whom "By Heck" was, as has been shown time and again when they would discuss "By Heck" with Mr. Clover, himself. "What do you think of that Bird, By Heck," that writes for the News?" they have queried of him time and again.

Universally popular have been the majority of his articles.

They have been written in a happy, snappy, enthusiastic and loyal to the Mexia Baseball Club style, pleasing to the fans and always brim full of live interest.

The News is, therefore, pleased to announce that he will have charge of the Sport columns hereafter and will contribute much to the success of the club as it enters into and goes through with its second year of organized baseball.

ball. Friends of the club are urged to co-operate with him and to give him any assistance possible. He will be glad to receive contributions from fans or suggestions either.

Jesse McLendon may claim justly to be the "original fan."

This is a claim that might be controverted however, but in deference to his authoritative position as President of the Mexia Baseball Club, he has the edge on other claimants at the outset.

"By Heck," however, retains in all the controversies the undisputed title of being "An Original Sport Writer."

He is deeply interested, as a fan and as official score keeper, in the Mexia Club and through his connections with this publicity medium, it is hoped and believed that he will be a real factor in helping mould a winning club to represent this city in the Texas Association during the coming season.

Mr. Clover is also interested in organizing a "City Baseball League" to play here in the absence of the local team. In due time, he may be expected to call a meeting of heads and members of various clubs, organizations and companies here that might be interested in such an organization.

Watch his columns closely. They're worth while.

NOWLIN NOTES

DEVOTED TO AMERICAN LEGION; ITEMS OF INTEREST TO MEMBERS OF THE ILLANUS NOWLIN POST AND THEIR FRIENDS.

PREAMBLE

For God and country, we associate ourselves together for the purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make the right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice; freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

The 1923 convention of the American Legion, at San Francisco, will be under orders from a man who formerly kept the doughboys moving—Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett, who has been appointed chairman of the annual gathering of the ex-service men.

General Liggett has a record of forty-two years in the service of the United States army. Graduated from the military academy at West Point in 1879, his first commission was with the fifth infantry. Back and forth across the continent, with a rise rank to accompany every move, he served as president of the War College in 1913, as a brigadier general. In 1914 he was sent to the Philippine Islands, in command of the Provisional infantry there. On Oct. 2, 1917, he arrived in France as commanding officer of the Forty first division of the A. E. F. As commander of the First American army corps he led his command through the second Marne operation, St. Mihiel and the first part of the Meuse-Argonne fighting. On April 22, 1919, he was assigned to command of the army of occupation on the Rhine.

Returning to the United States in July, 1919, General Liggett was assigned to command of the western department, with headquarters at San Francisco. He retired from the army in March, 1921.

The state legislature of Pennsylvania has passed a bonus bill providing for the payment of $35,000,000 to ex-service men or their beneficiaries. The bill will be submitted to a referendum vote of the people.

"I have never known a time when American Legion enthusiasm was as high as it is now," Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, stated on his return to Indianapolis from a tour during which he visited twenty-four state departments of the legion. When posts "find themselves," Mr. Owsley said, it is noticeable that they become real, vital factors in the community in which they exist. He said the business men and women in the country and the leading clubs and organizations were becoming more and more interested in the legion and its work. Mr. Owsley's tour covered the east, northeast, middle west, west and Pacific coast.

cred the east, northeast, middle west, west and Pacific coast.

Hawaiian members of the American Legion are planning a treat to offer their fellow veterans who attend the annual convention of the legion to be held in San Francisco. Following the convention sessions, they propose to organize an excursion party to visit the principal islands of the Hawaiian group.

Cunningham post of the American Legion at Hamilton, Texas, is the only post in the entire legion which this year has George King of England as commander. George King, an English man by birth but an American by choice, heads the post.

Women Keep Close Watch On Legislature

LINCOLN, Neb., March 7.—Although members of the Nebraska state legislature have been allowed considerable latitude, they have been keenly alert to the fact that the women of the state are extremely particular as to the gist for the legislative hopper. These women have kept constant vigil over the contents of the sluice boxes, and are now exerting all the power of their organizations toward securing the passage of certain measures.

The legislative program adopted by the women of Nebraska as represented by the three largest civic organizations of women, the Federation of Women's clubs, the League of Women's voters, and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, contain some of the most important bills under consideration in the state's legislature. Perhaps the most far reaching bill is one which requires that every voter must be able to read the constitution of the United States. A sister bill requires that the constitution shall be taught in all the schools.

Four "better marriage" bills have been introduced in this legislature, receiving the support of the women. The chief points embodied in these laws are: Raising the age of consent, giving a ten day public notice before issuing the license, abolishing common law marriage, and requiring a physician's certificate of health for both contracting parties.

Enforcement of liquor laws has not escaped their attention, and they have chosen to support several bills which spell fear even to the milk man, the grape juice addict, or enforcement officials whose specialty is amnesia or near sightedness.

One of these bills provides that if any person under surveillance and suspicion of violating the liquor laws shall pour out, destroy, break or throw out of any jug, bottle or container it shall be prima facie evidence of his guilt and the burden of proof shall be upon him to show that it is not moonshine. Another bill gives the governor power to suspend any officer against whom charges have been filed for failure to enforce the law, and to appoint a special attorney to prosecute the case.

Many other bills have been introduced which embody principles endorsed by the various women's organizations such as civil service bills, request for a constitutional amendment requiring referendum vote before declaration of war, a moving picture censorship bill, removal of the party circle from the ballot, child welfare laws, and creating city boards of public welfare for the supervision and regulation of theaters and dance halls, is receiving the strong support of club women.

J. K. HUGHES CALL

would be conducted by any inexperienced direction. Saying that this had been the down fall of practically every mill that had been a failure. He was also warned against promotion fees and promoters in general, as well as the purchase of run down second hand machinery, as at the time he told Mr. Hughes that he did not believe that the Chamber of Commerce should back a proposition that stood any chance of being a loss. He related how he had had considerable negotiations with several firms and individuals up to a certain point, to that then to be promotion schemes when in each case they would then be abandoned. He stated that there were still one of two of the propositions pending before the Chamber of Commerce, the merits of which he did not know. He related how when Mr. Hughes and the balance of the party visited Comstock that they recognized that the Comstock people were "honest to goodness" mill people with nothing to sell, nothing to promote and no axe to grind except to invest some money in connection with Texas people in order to make some money for themselves in the mill business. He was convinced that in the present instance the very evils against which he has been warned had been avoided, and he felt that there was practically no element of risk in the investment. In fact, he had so much confidence in it that it was unnecessary to recommend to both large and small investors. He gave his conception of the duty of the Chamber of Commerce to condemn a bad venture as quickly as to approve a good venture, and thought that the office should be able to keenly discriminate between propositions of a good and bad nature. He said that every experienced person consulted about the Comstock only strengthens his belief in the proposition, and while a successful cotton mill was undoubtedly a town builder, this investment is recommended to people having idle money solely and alone on account of its evident value as a dividend payer. He said that when the present proposition was developed that the Chamber of Commerce thought it was now the time to accept this proposition. He did not believe a better one could be secured, and if Mexico is not sufficiently interested in the present one to build a mill at this time, he saw no reason why the matter should be agitated further.

After the allotment of the different prospective subscribers of stock to the various town captains present, Chairman Hughes held a meeting of the town captains and committeemen to be held at the American Legion hall at 4 p. m. Tuesday. It was a full and lively meeting, and at the hour and a half, after those who had to be coming and reporting to the meeting would be at 4 p. m. Thursday, March 8, and that the place was the American Legion hall. He urged the town captains and committeemen to be on time and be prepared to give a full report of the meeting and the money to each town captain not including the list of names in the Mexia Daily News on Tuesday. The chairman pointed out that several hundred dollars worth of stock had been sold in the county and near by, but that the sales would be closed up between now and 4 p. m. when the first payment on it is due, provided the deal is made with the Comstock. On account of the short time and but it is impractical to see a great many of the farmers who will likely come to stock. The committee that the campaign will no doubt brought to a point where it can be determined whether or not it is advisable to underwrite it to the end of the week.

The committee also feels that this position not only merits the encouragement of the town people, but gives the substantial encouragement of the cotton raisers having to invest. It affords them an investment, and is the first toward building a home market limestone county cotton and farmers who are interested, and who have not been seen are requested to one of the team captains or one of the three local banks. The meeting for Friday night has been arranged for the Shiloh county on suggestion of Roy Stokes. J. M. Kennedy, Geo. Petty was chairman of the committee to go for the meeting Friday at Shiloh. Announcements of it will appear elsewhere in Thursday paper.

Mexia Lions club will hold their 7th session at the Shiloh hotel at room Friday of this week. The aim is in charge of the publicity committee. AUSTIN, March 7.—The special House committee investigating the elementary institutions of the state, in a report filed with Speaker R. L. Seagler today on investigation of the Girls Training School at Gainesville, recommended a sister discipline from them and the "little" of the parole system for inmates of the school. The policy of passing on transferring girls from the school to other reformatory institutions has been a source of much criticism, the Committee said. The committee concurred in the criticism and urged that girls on parole be recalled and the practice discontinued. Under no circumstances, they thought, should girls be paroled outside of the state.

COTTON MILL MEETING SHOWS FORWARD TREND

Greatest Blizzard Since '88 Hits New York

Suffering And Death Follow In Wake Of Storm

NEW YORK, March 7.—A blizzard of intensity that recalled the storm of 1888 swept New York and adjacent States today.

Snowfall early today totaled five inches or more and was so dense as to obscure visibility for more than a few feet. Street car rails became so icy that this kind of traffic was demoralized. Vehicle travel through the city's streets was extremely difficult.

One boy is dead, and many persons suffered severe injury as a result of the slippery streets which are covered with a heavy coating of sleet and snow badly drifted.

Snow fell all day yesterday, turning to sleet in the afternoon. The storm continued with increased fury today.

Harbor traffic was almost tied up, only ferries and tugs groping and battling their way through the blizzard. The cold wave, following spring-like weather, again caused a cool shortage. City Health authorities issued influenza warnings.

Only four thousand snow shovelers answered the city's call for men to keep streets and sidewalks clear and this number proved totally inadequate, the snow piling up in huge drifts.

Elevated roads were tied up for an hour in many places early today, especially where the lines ran through cuts on the way to Long Island points. Rain and sleet alternately formed impassable coatings on third rails and tracks.

The Weather Bureau predicts that it will continue for at least another twelve hours.

Turkey Sends Proposal To The Allies Today

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 7.—Turkey today sent to the allies proposals for new negotiations regarding Mosul and the financial and the economic clauses of the Lausanne treaty. The National Assembly rejected the treaty yesterday with only a few dissenting votes. At the same time the assembly gave the Government a vote of confidence.

Turkish independence must be upheld and the allies must make further concessions regarding occupied regions to be evacuated upon conclusion of peace, the assembly declared in voting down the Lausanne pact and choosing possible war rather than accept it.

The United States Commissioner sent a vigorous note to the Ankara Government protesting against the shutting of duty on American flour.

$75,000 Fire Hits A Georgia Village

MACON, Ga., March 7.—Loss in the fire which destroyed the planing mill of the Massee Lumber Company here last night was estimated at $75,000 today.

Navy Planes Plan World Flight In Future

NEW YORK, March 7.—A conquest of the air that includes flights around the world and to the North and South Poles is planned by the United States Navy.

The flights will be attempted with the navy dirigible ZR-1, a monster airship now under construction at Philadelphia and Lakehurst, N. J., Rear Admiral Wm. A. Moffet, chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics declared in a speech through a wireless broadcasting station here last night.

The dirigible, the first of its kind to be built by the navy will be completed about July 1, and will also be sent on long trips throughout the United States Moffet said, adding that a sister "Queen of the Air," the ZR-3, is being built for the American Navy in Germany.

The two ships, it was declared, comprise the most improved factors known to air science.

Declaring that the navy leads the world in air equipment and stressing importance of such equipment in warfare, Moffet declared Bermuda and the Bahamas occupy the same relations to the United States as Heligoland did to Germany and that enemy airplanes using the islands as a base could bomb practically the entire Atlantic seaboard. He also called attention to the fact that Jamaica is within easy bombing distance of the Panama Canal.

Hunt Organized In Oklahoma To Find H. Garrett

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7.—Federal and county authorities here strated an organized search of Oklahoma county today in an effort to recapture Henry Garrett, alleged leader of strike violence at Shawnee, who jumped from a train near here last night as he was being taken to Pottawatomie county to face charges.

Garrett was in custody of Sheriff G. C. Butler, Pottawatomie county when he made his daring escape. The sheriff went on to Shawnee where he reported the escape to local authorities, it was learned.

A signed confession admitting depredations in connection with the strike was obtained from Garrett shortly before he was sent to Shawnee, Alva McDonald, United States Marshal said.

Snow Is Heavy In The States of New England

BOSTON, Mass., March 7.—One of the worst snow storms in years lashed New England last night and today bringing a fall of more than six inches in 12 hours.

The doctor declared he believed his abductors were dope fiends who were after the small amount of narcotics he carried.

MANAGER BOX OF NATIONAL AND PALACE THEATRES SUFFERS FROM SHOCK WHICH HE SUSTAINED FROM VERY LIVE WIRE

P.W. Box, Manager of the National and Palace Theatres, here was severely though not seriously shocked Tuesday afternoon when he came in contact with a live wire, resulting in him receiving the full 220 volts in his body before he fell loose from the contact.

He had gone to the rear of his establishment in the National theatre building and attempted to unscrew a bulb from its socket. In taking hold of the socket, his hand came in touch with the live wire. He felt himself becoming dazed and fell backward, his hand being released in falling to the floor. Electricians explained that he received double the 110 voltage due to the connection his body established with the concrete floor. It was about ten minutes before he recovered consciousness. His hand was painfully burned in the ordeal.

Police Combing Oklahoma City For Doctor Abducted

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7.—The police were combing this city today in search of Dr. D. Cheston Goldberg, prominent physician, who was abducted by four unidentified men as he entered his home here late last night.

A hat in which was stamped the name "Harper" and the vague description offered by Mrs. Goldberg, who was attracted by calls of her husband as he unsuccessfully tried to fight off his abductors, they said.

According to Mrs. Goldberg she and her husband and small son and the doctor had just returned from a call. The wife and child left the automobile at the door while Goldberg drove his car around to the garage.

Mrs. Goldberg explained to police that just as she and her son were entering the house screams of her husband for help were heard. She rushed to garage to offer assistance she said, but the kidnappers shoved her aside with the order to "shut up or we'll give worse."

The men carried Goldberg to a waiting automobile and disappeared, she stated.

LEADERSHIP INSPIRING IN MEXIA

Solomon never spoke words fraught with greater wisdom than contained in the statement that "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Mexia has been proud of the reputation that she has been sustaining for many months as "The City That Vision Is Building."

Wichita Falls is known as "The City that Faith Built." Mexia is like Wichita Falls in some respects. It is favorably located in the heart of a great oil producing area and has an ambition to prosper and to increase just like Wichita Falls.

In these slogans there is a difference, however.

The Wichita Falls slogan conveys the impression that Faith has been active in the past but that it has completed its influence and that a finished product stands as a result of its mighty force in the past.

Mexia's slogan, on the other hand, conveys the idea that the city is not yet, done growing and that in its forward strides faith and vision are playing prominent roles.

Whether or not this slogan is true now is again being tested, in the matter of the movement to build cotton mills here.

There is yet work to be done.

There is not much doubt but that Mexia citizens will measure up to the standards of up looking men and women which have characterized this people as an active community, and this doubt should be dispelled before tomorrow night.

Leadership is an important matter in any and all affairs in community life. Mexia is fortunate in having men of vision to whom every man, woman and child may look in the present instance.

J. K. Hughes, head of the cotton mill movement, is one of those rare citizens seldom found in any community but effective and helpful, appreciated and applauded, by thousands wherever their mighty influence finds sway.

Mexia may rally to him again as never before.

He has been an outstanding figure in the triumphant march of this section in the past two years and his interest, his loyalty, his enthusiasm, his confidence, and his vision are now the most convincing arguments in favor of the Mexia Cotton Mills that could possibly be advanced.

There remains but a few crucial hours before Mexia will have her answer ready for Mr. Hughes. Mr. Hughes is confident.

It now remains for the hundreds who have not been seen in regard to their part in the future industrial development of this section to take a hold at once and voluntarily, without hesitation, but with assurance, let him and the Chamber of Commerce know just how much or how little they can take in putting the cotton mill for Mexia over in grand style right away.

Less than 200 citizens so far have pledged their financial support to the new Mexia, to be built with the aid of the cotton mills. There should be several times that many interested. It may be that large sums cannot be invested but in view of the manner of payments, few property owners are here who cannot take a small sum at least and help that much.

Don't pass the buck to George.

You are as much interested in the progress and as responsible for its civic improvement and position of leadership in this section of Texas as those who have been bearing a big part of the battle and paying the bills.

In the interest of a bigger and better Mexia, rally to the leadership of J. K. Hughes and the others who are working day and night now to make possible this first big industrial dream, sponsored by vision, held for Mexia today and for a greater community tomorrow.

Police Combing Oklahoma City For Doctor Abducted

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7.—The police were combing this city today in search of Dr. D. Cheston Goldberg, prominent physician, who was abducted by four unidentified men as he entered his home here late last night.

The men carried Goldberg to a waiting automobile and disappeared, she stated.

TERRELL.—The local Chamber of Commerce is at work on a project for a cotton mill to be built here with good prospects for success. They have the co-operation of large mill interests in North Carolina.

AUSTIN.—Texas University defeated Texas A. & M. College 18 to 12 in the former's last conference basketball game here last night.

J. K. Hughes Calls Another Important Session Thursday

Approximately fifty business men gathered Tuesday night at the Hurdston Hotel in an open meeting to discuss ways and means of completing the cotton mill campaign. The meeting was originally intended as a street meeting but on account of the necessity of putting the cotton mill campaign over, it was changed to a cotton mill meeting and due notice was given in the press.

The meeting was presided over by J. K. Hughes who stated that the object of the meeting was to lay plans for the successful completion of the Cotton Mill campaign. He spoke in his usual confident way and the result of the meeting was the raising of the total subscription of $214,400 reported in Tuesday's paper to approximately $250,000 at the close of the meeting. Due to the inability of the office to induce the team captains to report the names of the subscribers an accurate check is impossible and the figures given are approximate. Subscriptions taken at the meeting are as follows:

V. B. Gardner raised his subscription of $2,000 to $5,000.

Subscription from D. Leon Harp of $2,500 was reported by J. K. Hughes.

Subscription of J. Desenberg of $5,000, which had been given previously, but not reported, was raised to $7,500 by Mr. Desenberg.

J. Nussbaum gave his subscription for $7,500.

Geo. Petty's committee reported that they had raised $2,300 but the names were not listed.

Phil Karner's committee reported that they had raised $2,750 since the last report but the names were not listed.

C. F. Reeves was reported as having subscribed $150.00.

Buckner & Wright reported as having subscribed $1,000.

Emile Nussbaum subscribed $1,000.

Geo. W. Perkins turned in his subscription for $500.00.

A list of Mexia business men and firms who had not yet subscribed were submitted and different committees were detailed to see these prospects, and the opinion expressed that the Mexia business interests should whole heartedly support the proposition by subscriptions liberal and without delay as something definite must be had on the proposition as evidenced by the following telegram which is quoted in full:

Atlanta, Ga., March 6, 1923.

Ben F. Stollenwerck, secretary.

Chamber of Commerce, Mexia, Texas.

This will act as authority for extension of time on mill proposition through Saturday this week. Pleased to hear of your progress. We are with you so keep up the good work. Wire me your progress Wednesday.

Cannon Robert Interest.

Geo. W. Perkins who had recently heard an address in the Texas legislature by Dr. Jno. J. Taggart, National Commissioner of Education, with reference to the cotton mill in connection with Educational affairs said that previous to the advent of the cotton mill industry into the commercial life of North Carolina that that state had been way down the line in educational rank but that due to the prosperity brought with the cotton mill that North Carolina had advanced in educational standing until she was far ahead of Texas today and that from actual observation completely refuted the statement to the effect that the cotton mill industry tended to lower the standard of citizenship where it was located. Mr. Perkins closed his talk with his subscription to stock of the mill and his remarks were highly appreciated by those present.

H. M. Gilbough, W. M. Moody and John F. Reese of Tehuacana spoke briefly and expressed the opinion that Mexia was on the right track and that the cotton mill should be all means be built in Mexia.

J. Desenberg, J. Nussbaum, Dr. Oates and one or two others spoke briefly giving endorsement to the proposition as heretofore outlined.

Secretary Stollenwerck of the Chamber of Commerce asked to be permitted to make a statement in which he gave what he termed the "inside history" of the present proposition that the Chamber of Commerce is backing. He referred to the cotton mill publicity campaign by the Chamber of Commerce, saying that there was in the community a strong sentiment in favor of the cotton mill, but due to the fact that the Chamber of Commerce had never until the present instance, developed a proposition, that they could unequivocally endorse, and ask the citizens to subscribe to stock.

He related how when Mr. Hughes had been appointed chairman of the Industrial Committee that he had called the Secretary to his office, and suggested that there had been enough talk and enough publicity, and that it was time for the Chamber of Commerce to put out something tangible. He related how he informed Mr. Hughes that up to that time nothing tangible had offered itself except various schemes of promoters and that in conference with mill operators of several successful mills in Texas he had been warned against the building of a mill which

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7.—A high wind storm which swept Georgia last night caused property damage amounting to thousands of dollars, it was estimated today.

Roofs were blown off houses in several small towns and telephone communications was disrupted. Passenger trains on the Central of Georgia, running out of Montgomery, Ala., was delayed by debris blown across the tracks.

George Petty, President of the Mexia Chamber of Commerce, now actively interested in putting over the cotton mills for Mexia and busy with the team of which he is a member in raising finances for the project, states that he is ready to help on any teams that may desire his co-operation. He is ready at all hours, day or night, with his conveyance to go with any man or any set of men anywhere and will take great pleasure in responding to such calls he says. He like scores of others here are anxious to see this thing through successfully.

Murdered Officers Bodies Are Found In A Creek Today

FRANKLIN, La., March 7.—Wesley Grain and Wiley Pierce, deputy sheriffs, were slain in a gun battle with two officers and their bodies were found today in a creek. Authorities investigating the disappearances today believed.

Bloody clothing believed to have been worn by the two officers, was found last night at the home of one of twelve men detained by police in connection with the mystery.

Their bodies were found today buried in Mud Creek. The officers were shot to death near the still which they had planned to raid the night they had planned to raid the night they were murdered. John Murphy and Gideon Rester, farmers, confessed to the killing, according to Deputy R. H. Bateman, after the bodies were found.

Ingenuity

It was one of those melodramas given by home talent and in the guard-house scene a real, honest-to-goodness buck private was supposed to be drilled by a bullet while sawing through the bars in an endeavor to gain his liberty. The gun unfortunately missed fire, but the buck, true to form, dropped as if dead.

Something had to be done adn that instantly, but the sergeant of the guard was equal to emergency. "Thunder and lightning!" he bellowed "He's swallowed the hack-saw."—Ex.

Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

The Quick Style

The quickest-cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quick Quaker Oats, as well as the regular Quaker.

The Quick cooks in a hurry. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

Thin flakes, partly cooked

In flavor and quality the two styles are identical. Both are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats.

We get but ten pounds of Quaker Oats from a bushel. And that super-flavor has made this brand the leading oat dish the world over.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now Quaker Oats offers you two great advantages. It offers you flavor which no other oats can match. And it offers, if you wish, the only oats that cook in from 3 to 5 minutes.

For one or both of these reasons you want Quaker Oats. Be sure that you get it, and get the style you want.

Regular Quaker Oats

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

(Waco Times-Herald)

Latly there has been spread before us what ten books this, that or the other individual would take along with him or her in the event of being banished to some island, although, we fancy, those Galvestonians would resent the idea of their being a place of banishment. Here, as elsewhere, of course, tastes differ; one person wants philosophy and another wants poetry and yet another prefers only such literature as lifts the veil and lets one look into the ultimate heavens. In books, as in everything else, what's one man's delight is another's fright—books and bonnets are not dissimilar in this respect. If one reads much, one's taste undergoes change, save as to certain masterpieces—these can never pall. At a certain stage in one's career, one will like Dickens—will fairly dote on him; later, no Dickens for him, save an occasional morsel. And so, bound for that imaginable island, the ten books one would select today might be poor companions tomorrow. However, there are sketches in literature which never lose their beauty; this, for example, from Sterne's Tristram Shandy:

The accusing spirit, which flew up to heaven's chancery with the oath, blushed as he gave it in; and the recording angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear upon the word and blotted it out forever.

And there is a never-fading beauty in these lines from Gray's Elegy:

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour,
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

Always in Shakespeare's writings, of course, there is superb beauty:

Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,
To silence envious tongues; be just and fear not.
Let all the ends thou aimest at be thy country's,
Thy God's and truth's.

Hugh Blair, a Scottish divine, has said that "the great standard of literature, as to purity and exactness of style, is the Bible." As far as we have observed, the most of those taking passage for the island, with no return ticket, have named the Bible among the ten books designated, but this might be accounted for not so much on account of literature as in the belief, whether hidden or expressed, that this Book is the guide to our ultimate destination. Nevertheless, as literature the Bible is indeed a wellspring of joy. There is majesty in the writings of Isaiah, while many of the Psalms are as honey gathered in the region about Uvalde. The imagery of the Book of Revelation is superior to the dreams of De Quincey or the flights of Milton. But, in our humble opinion, the greatest single piece of literature, unmatched and unmatchable, is the Parable of the Prodigal Son, taken from the fifteenth chapter of the Gospel according to Luke:—

11 And he said, A certain man had two sons:
12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18 I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment; and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

No element is lacking; it is poetry; it is imagery; it is inspiration; it is abiding peace to the soul. No writer, either sacred or profane, has ever matched that production; the Parable of the Prodigal Son is the masterpiece of all literature.

Frank Mayo has won a niche in the cinematic Hall of Fame by being a man's man. The success of his pictures does not depend upon sartorial elegance or lavish settings. This is brought out more strongly than ever in his latest Universal offering, "Out of the Silent North," which now shows at the Palace Theatre. It is a tale of the Canadian Northlands with Nature's rugged beauty as a background.

Those who have seen the picture declare it one of the best in the Universal star's career.

"WHILE OTHERS SLEEP"

OWEN FRIEND WATKINS
NIGHTLY SERENADE

My neighbor has a charming daughter
Who's taking voice and harmony
And every night I hear her slaughter
Some old plantation melody.
He also keeps around his flat
An old coon hound and brindle cat

When daughter's last distressing number
Has filled the air with squealing sound
And I have stretched myself for slumber
Then comes the yelp of that old hound,
And thus throughout the stilly night
He barks and howls with all his might.

I toss and roll and kick the cover
And wish that dog would choke or die
But twelve o'clock he seeks his hover
And whines the moon a sad good-bye.
And then while shadows o'er me creep
I weigh my eyelids down to sleep.

But not for long does slumber linger
To give me rest and paint my dreams
For three o'clock, with piercing anger
That brindle cat lets out his screams.
Sometimes his squalls are short, subdued,
That's always signs of Tom-Cat feud.

His meows and growls and sudden hisses
Would wake the dead for judgment morn
While there I fill the air with curses
And wonder why that cat was born.
That wailing cry, that fiendish yell
Was never heard this side of H—(Groesbeck).

THE MELTING POT

Up in North Texas baseball fans have a hunch that the Texas association will not function this season. Some of the wise guys claim that the new league will receive the knockout punch following the meeting of the league in Waco next Sunday. Then will come a new gathering of those interested in the T-O league in Dallas and permanent formation of that organization will be perfected.

It evidently does not occur to the T-O boosters that the Texas Association is already well founded. Sherman and Corsicana have both obtained releases from the T-O and the Mexia franchise is already in the new organization. Both Sherman and Corsicana have already expressed a preference to be in Texas Association and will possibly still express such a preference at the next meeting of the new league.

It is easy to see on the face of things that towns in the Texas league are more than anxious to see the T-O league get back on its feet and just as eager to see the Texas association fail. The main reason is that the Texas league realizes that it cannot dominate the Texas association and use it as a burial place for its falling stars.

On all sides we hear reports that the Texas-Oklahoma league is about to die and in the same paper we read reports that the league will have a meeting for reorganization purposes at a near future date. Wonder which is correct?

Texas Association Will Hold Meeting Corsicana Sunday

TO DECIDE IF CORSICANA AND SHERMAN MAY JOIN ON
ONE-YEAR BASIS

CORSICANA, March 7.—President Dude Ransom of the Corsicana baseball association stated Monday afternoon that he had a telephone message from President Davidson of the Texas Association stating that he did not know whether the Texas Association would accept Corsicana and Sherman on the one year release from the Texas Oklahoma which was granted at a meeting of the Texas-Oklahoma league in Dallas Sunday.

At the meeting the T-O League Sunday it was decided to allow Corsicana and Sherman to join the Texas Association for a period of one year since they had made tentative arrangements to join because it was the consensus of opinion that the T-O League was to disband.

President Ransom stated that Mr. Davidson informed him that a meeting of the Texas Association would be held in Corsicana next Sunday at which time the proposition of allowing Sherman and Corsicana to join the Texas Association will be acted on.

In the event that the Texas Association refuses to accept Corsicana and Sherman on the basis that they were released, it is probable that the Texas Oklahoma League will reorganize and operate during the approaching season.

SPLENDID NEW DRAMA MIRRORS FAR NORTH

The great, silent places of the North have been cast for a leading part in "Out of the Silent North," Frank Mayo's latest Universal production, which is now showing at the Palace to day. The picture has a background of scenic beauty rarely shown upon the screen. Towering mountains rare their hoary heads above the snow filled valleys in which the action of the photoplay takes place. The changing seasons put a different aspect upon the setting of the picture. Amid these splendors of nature a simple tale is unfolded, a story of the true nobility with which the Cerator had endowed an ignorant frontiersman.

Frank Mayo has the role of Pierre Baptiste, a French-Canadian living in a distant outpost of civilization. He loved Marcette, whose father kept the only store. A stranger comes, a man, whose polish and refinement turned the girl's head. For her happiness Pierre is ready to sacrifice himself. He accompanies the man upon a dangerous expedition, saves his life and brings him, injured, back for Marcette to nurse. In this the girl realizes Pierre's true worth.

The story has been convincingly filmed under the direction of William Worthington.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work,
But This Texas Lady Says She
Had to Go to Bed—
Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work."

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches."

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will outdown the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

Here's one reason: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

Humphreys Gun Club Plans Series of "Shoots"

Dr C P McKenzie High Scorer At Initial Event

At the first contest of the Humphreys Gun Club, held on the range, just west of the Humphreys Club building, last Saturday, Dr. C. P. McKenzie was declared first prize winner with a score of 48.

A. P. Davis of the Humphreys Club was a close second with a score of 42. Hal Esaton and George Prendergast were also close contenders for third place, their score being 35 and 34 respectively, while C. C. Brown was 5 at the shooting with 32 to his credit.

The score was out of a possible 50. There were 23 present and participating in the shoot, which was intensely interesting to the "good fellows" who entered with a zest into the sport which now seems destined to soon take rank in this section as a real "Major" sport.

Much interest is now being attached to the series of events planned by the club for the next four weeks, which will in all comprise the next competitive "shoot in four acts."

George Prendergast, Secretary of the Club and because of whose efforts the existence of the club is largely due, states that there will be fifty birds each Saturday.

At the shoot last Saturday, it was stated that A. P. Davis remonstrated against the target. It was his firm conviction, it is alleged, that the targets should be much larger and that the range should be shortened considerably. Others who had trouble then may take this important matter up in executive councils at an early date, unless something is done, it is further stated.

Membership cards are now being issued in the Gun Club and Mr. Prendergast states that the present membership will be glad to receive applications from any others who enjoy this sport. Affiliation with the organization is open to the public and already the club is growing in numbers rapidly.

The public is also cordially invited to witness the events each Saturday, just to the left of the Groesbeck road, near the Hughes teaming camp, a short distance outside the city limits.

GIRL HUNGRY WITH 114 DEGREES FEVER

ESCANABIA, Mich., March 7.—Miss Evelyn Woods, 30, who for the past 17 days has startled the medical profession with a temperature reading 114 degrees or better, passed a very good night, according to the report issued today by Dr. Harry Defnet, physician in charge. The girl's appetite also remained good.

According to the physician, fear is expressed that the girl will die should the temperature go down. The unprecedented fever is believed to have been caused from a tumor which is causing pressure on the thermal centers of the brain, the report says.

EL DORADO—A new stone building for the local telephone exchange is being arranged for. Damage done wires by a recent heavy sleet storm is now completely repaired.

SURELY LANDIS HAS HIS TROUBLES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, March 7.—When Commissioner Landis took charge of major league baseball he must have known that pleasing the club owners was a job of the size and almost as impossible of fulfillment as drying up the ocean with the wall known pan full of holes.

If the commissioner didn't know it then, he surely knows it now.

Rather fortunately for him, however, he has only sixteen men to deal with and in that comparatively small group he can sort the ones for him and the ones against him.

The argument over the creation of the position and the appointment of a man to the post should have shown the commissioner conclusively where he stood.

Since he took up the reins of baseball there has been a steady current of anti-Landis propaganda under the surface.

First it was suggested that he could not deal with the White Sox betrayers drastically and save his hide. The same thing was said about the Kauff case. Then he was predicted as a sure failure when it came to getting the majors and minors together. Next it was the rescue of baseball after it got dark that afternoon during the world's series.

Now it is the Benton case. The commissioner has in his lap a case that the National League wasn't courageous enough to settle itself. If Babe Benton is to sue anyone, he must institute proceedings against Landis. The National League is out of it.

The Benton case is the toughest proposition that has been put up to the commissioner and some of the magnates are reminding him, in actions, if not in actual words, that much are the things for which he was hired.

If Landis reinstates Benton, he will have Charley Herzog and his lawyers on him; if he puts the skids under Benton, he will have Garry Herrmann, the St. Paul club and Benton around his neck.

The National League passed the buck to Landis because it doesn't want to air the Herzog-Benton case in court. If elgal action results from the present tangle, the records may have to be produced, if they haven't been destroyed.

SHOOTING AWAY THE WISE ONES

"Have you heard this?" said Neighbor Quiz.

"Depends," said I, "on what it is!"

"Why, this about young Tim McGee?"

Said I, "That doesn't interest me!"

"Have you heard all this recent stuff about your neighbor, Phil McGruff, how he went down to Farnandale?"

"I have no interest in the tale!"

That settled Quiz, and off he went to seek a more attentive gent.

"Have you heard all that's going on about the Widder Lizzie Brown?"

Said Neighbor Probe, with face all set to tell me what he should forget.

"Perhaps I have, perhaps I've not," said I, "but ditch the tommy-rot!"

"I heard the strangest thing today," my Neighbor Probe went on to say, "about young Barney Shifflesworth—it surely took me by surprise! And that about young Mackelray, it more than took my breath away when I first heard about the scrape!" continued Probe, with mouth agape.

"Your breath away?" said I.

"Alack! Too bad you ever got it back!"

Away went Probe to seek and find

a listener more keen and kind!

No doubt each man upon the globe has Neighbor Quiz and Neighbor Probe those fellows who will never fail to ferret out and spread a tale. The only way to treat such men, I've often said, and say again, is just to shoot them on their way, like I did both of them today!—J. Edward Tuft in Farm Life.

Mrs. A. A. Dalton and little son Jimmie, left Tuesday evening for Hopkins, Mo., for a visit to her mother, brother and her two sons. From there she will go to Tonkawa, Oklahoma where she will be joined a short while later by her husband, who is now employed in Meador's studio as a photo artist, where they will reside in the future. Their friends regret to see them leave, but wish them much happiness and prosperity in their new home.

"By Heck" Will Edit Sports For The News

The News' sport page is now being edited "By Heck."

"By Heck" has contributed many columns of type to the Mexia Daily News frequently for the past year.

So much interest has been aroused by virtue of his very readable articles and so much curiosity called to his "By Line" that The News is pleased to reveal his identity to every reader of the sport section of the home newspaper.

"By Heck" is "Charles L. Clover," Official Score Keeper for the Mexia Baseball Club and also Secretary of the Mexia B. P. O. E. 1447.

Many knew this before. Many "guessed him" long ago. Nevertheless there have been many fans here who did not know just whom "By Heck" was, as has been shown time and again when they would discuss "By Heck" with Mr. Clover, himself. "What do you think of that Bird, By Heck, that writes for the News?" they have queried of him time and again.

Universally popular have been the majority of his articles.

They have been written in a happy, snappy, enthusiastic and loyal to the Mexia Baseball Club style, pleasing to the fans and always brim full of live interest.

The News is, therefore, pleased to announce that he will have charge of the Sport columns hereafter and will contribute much to the success of the club as it enters into and goes through with its second year of organized baseball.

ball. Friends of the club are urged to co-operate with him and to give him any assistance possible. He will be glad to receive contributions from fans or suggestions either.

Jess McLendon may claim justly to be the "original fan."

This is a claim that might be controverted however, but in deference to his authoritative position as President of the Mexia Baseball Club, he has the edge on other claimants at the outset.

"By Heck," however, retains in all the controversies the undisputed title of being "An Original Sport Writer."

He is deeply interested, as a fan and as official score keeper, in the Mexia Club and through his connections with this publicity medium, it is hoped and believed that he will be a real factor in helping mould a winning club to represent this city in the Texas Association during the coming season.

Mr. Clover is also interested in organizing a "City Baseball League" to play here in the absence of the local team. In due time, he may be expected to call a meeting of heads and members of various clubs, organizations and companies here that might be interested in such an organization. Watch his columns closely. They're worth while.

NOWLIN NOTES

DEVOTED TO AMERICAN LEGION; ITEMS OF INTEREST TO EVERY MEMBER OF THE LEAGUE; NOWLIN POST AND THEIR FRIENDS.

PREAMBLE

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make the right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice; freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

The 1923 convention of the American Legion, at San Francisco, will be under orders from a man who formerly kept the doughboys moving—Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett, who has been appointed chairman of the annual gathering of the ex-service men.

General Liggett has a record of forty two years in the service of the United States army. Graduated from the military academy at West Point in 1879, his first commission was with the fifth infantry. Back and forth across the continent, with a rise rank to accompany every move, he served as president of the War College in 1913, as a brigadier general. In 1914 he was sent to the Philippine Islands, in command of the Provisional Infantry there. On Oct. 2, 1917, he arrived in France as commanding officer of the Forty first division of the A. E. F. As commander of the First American army corps he led his command through the second Marne operation, the Meuse-Argonne fighting. On April 22, 1919, he was assigned to command of the army of occupation on the Rhine.

Returning to the United States in July, 1919, General Liggett was assigned to command of the western department, with headquarters at San Francisco. He retired from the army in March, 1921.

The state legislature of Pennsylvania has passed a bonus bill providing for the payment of $35,000,000 to ex-service men or their beneficiaries. The bill will be submitted to a referendum vote of the people.

"I have never known a time when American Legion enthusiasm was as high as it is now," Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, stated on his return to Indianapolis from a tour during which he visited twenty four state departments of the legion. When posts "find themselves," Mr. Owsley said, it is noticeable that they become real, vital factors in the community in which they exist. He said the business men and women in the country and the leading clubs and organizations were becoming more and more interested in the legion and its work. Mr. Owsley's tour covered the east, northeast, middle west, west and Pacific coast.

Hawaiian members of the American Legion are planning a treat to offer their fellow veterans who attend the annual convention of the legion to be held in San Francisco. Following the convention sessions, they propose to organize an excursion party to visit the principal islands of the Hawaiian group.

Cunningham post of the American Legion at Hamilton, Texas, is the only post in the entire legion which this year has George King of England as commander. George King, an English man by birth but an American by choice, heads the post.

Women Keep Close Watch On Legislature

LINCOLN, Neb., March 7.—Although members of the Nebraska state legislature have been allowed considerable latitude, they have been keenly alert to the fact that the women of the state are extremely particular as to the grist for the legislative hopper. These women have kept constant vigil over the contents of the sluce boxes, and are now exerting all the power of their organizations toward securing the passage of certain measures.

The legislative program adopted by the women of Nebraska as represented by the three largest civic organizations of women, the Federation of Women's clubs, the League of Women's voters, and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, contain some of the most important bills under consideration in the state's legislature. Perhaps the most far reaching bill is one which requires that every voter must be able to read the constitution of the United States. A sister bill requires that the constitution shall be taught in all the schools.

Four "better marriage" bills have been introduced in this legislature, receiving the support of the women. The chief points embodied in these laws are: Raising the age of consent, giving a ten day public notice before issuing the license, abolishing common law marriage, and requiring a physician's certificate of health for both contracting parties.

Enforcement of liquor laws has not escaped their attention, and they have chosen to support several bills which spell fear even to the milk man, the grape juice addict, or enforcement officials whose specialty is amnesia or near sightedness.

One of these bills provides that if any person under surveillance and suspicion of violating the liquor laws shall pour out, destroy, break or throw out of any jug, bottle or container it

sahll be prima facie evidence of his guilt and the burden of proof shall be upon him to show that it is not moonshine. Another bill gives the governor power to suspend any officer against whom charges have been filed for failure to enforce the law, and to appoint a special attorney to prosecute the case.

Many other bills have been introduced which embody principles endorsed by the various women's organizations such as civil service bills, request for a constitutional amendment requiring referendum vote before declaration of war, a moving picture censorship bill, removal of the party circle from the ballot, child welfare laws, and creating city boards of public welfare for the supervision and regulation of theaters and dance halls, is receiving the strong support of club women.

CHINA GROWING MORE POPPIES

GENEVA.—Confidential reports received by the League of Nations indicate that the opium and narcotic drug situation in the Orient has grown suddenly worse. There is reason to believe not only that the cultivation of the poppy has resumed in certain districts of China but also that large quantities of morphine have been smuggled into the country.

would be conducted by any inexperienced direction. Saying that this had been the down fall of practically every mill that had been a failure. He was also warned against promotion fees and promoters in general, as well as the purchase of run down second hand machinery, as at the time he told Mr. Hughes that he did not believe that the Chamber of Commerce should back a proposition that stood any chance of being a loss. He related how he had had considerable negotiations with several firms and individuals up to a certain point, to find them to be promotion schemes when in each case they would then be abandoned. He stated that there were still one of two of the propositions pending before the Chamber of Commerce, the merits of which he did not know. He related how when Mr. Hughes and the balance of the party visited Corsicana that they recognized that the Cannon people were "honest to goodness" mill people with nothing to sell, nothing to promote and no axe to grind except to invest some money in connection with Texas people in order to make some money for themselves in the mill business. He was convinced that in the present instance the very evils against which he has been warned had been avoided, and he felt that there was practically no element of risk in the investment. In fact, he had so much confidence in it that it was unreservedly recommended to both large and small investors. He gave his conception of the duty of the Chamber of Commerce to condemn a bad venture as quickly as to approve a good venture, and thought that the office should be able to keenly discriminate between propositions of a good and bad nature. He said that every experienced person consulted about the Cannons only strengthens his belief in the proposition, and while a successful cotton mill was undoubtedly a town builder, this investment is recommended to people having idle money solely and alone on account of its evident value as a dividend payer. He said that when the present proposition was developed that the Chamber of Commerce thought it was now the time to accept this proposition. He did not believe a better one could be secured, and if Mexia is not sufficiently interested in the present one to build a mill at this time, he saw no reason why the matter should be agitated further.

After the allotment of the different prospective subscribers of stock to the various team captains present, Chairman Hughes asked a meeting of the team captains and committeemen to be held at the American Legion Hall at 4 p. m. Thursday, March 8, and called particular attention to the hour and date, adding those interested not to be confused, repeating that the meeting would be at 4 p. m. Thursday, March 8, and that the place was the American Legion Hall. He urged the team captains and committeemen to be on time and be prepared to give a full report of the names and the amounts of each subscription not including the list as given in The Mexia Daily News on Tuesday. The telegram as quoted above, is evidence of the fact that something definite must be done this week and the committee feels that Mexia citizens should take a final action on the stock subscription Wednesday Thursday.

It was pointed out that several hundred dollars worth of stock had been sold in the county and near points, but that these sales would be closed up between now and April 1st when the first payment on stock is due, provided the deal is duly made with the Cannons. On account of the short time and bad luck it is impractical to see a great many of the farmers who will likely subscribe to stock. The committee brought to a point where it can determine whether or not it would be advisable to under-write it at the end of the week. The committee also feels that this position not only merits the encouragement of the town people, but gives the substantial encouragement of the cotton raisers having say to invest. It affords them an investment, and is the first toward building a home market. Limestone county cotton and farmers who are interested, and who have not been seen are requested to one of the team captains or one of the three local banks. A meeting for Friday night has been arranged for the Shiloh community on suggestion of Roy Stokes. J. M. Kennedy, Geo. Petty was chairman of the committee to give for the meeting Friday at Shiloh. Announcements of the will appear elsewhere in Thursday paper.

Mexia Lions club will hold their 5th session at the Hurdleston hotel room Friday of this week. The team is in charge of the publicity committee. AUSTIN, March 7.—The special House committee, investigating the eleemosynary institutions of the state, in a report filed with Speaker R. E. Seagler today on investigation of the Girl's Training School at Gainesville, recommended a sister discipline from them and the abolition of the parole system for inmates of the school. The policy of sending to reforming girls from the school to other reformatory institutions has been a source of much criticism, the Committee said. The committee concurred in the criticism and urged that girls on parole be recalled and the practice discontinued. Under no circumstances, they thought, should girls be paroled outside of the state.
